Induction heaters & accessories

With an inductive output power of 1.1 to a maximum of 3.7 kW, we offer a wide range of range of induction heaters and extensive accessories, including various coils. Our models are suitable for a wide range of applications, e.g. for suspension joint clamping screws and other bolted connections on the axle and engine on passenger cars and commercial vehicles.

Info

Operating principle

Our induction heaters work with an electromagnetic alternating field that is built up inside the induction coil. The metallic object (e.g. a nut) in the coil reacts to the induced eddy currents like an electrical resistor and heats up. This enables the targeted heating of screws or nuts without strongly heating up or damaging surrounding components - a frequent problem when heating up with welding torches. Even rusted nuts can be heated and loosened within a very short time.
